Color Set to Be Modified

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — About 90,000 General Electric color television sets will be modified to correct "emission of soft radiation in excess of desirable levels," a GE spokesman says.

The company official said Thursday that the modification program would apply only to large-screen sets sold between June 1966 and February 1967.

The spokesman said the president of the National Honor Society, Captain of the cheerleaders, member of the choir, and the F.H.A. tests indicated that the radiation was directed toward the floor and not the viewer.

Company service representatives will contact persons who purchased the GE large-screen sets, the spokesman said.

A MOBILE HOME wasn't exactly what two birds had in mind when they selected this site. But, thanks to Ronald Bennett of Ojai, Calif., they were not evicted when a garage mechanic discovered the nest. Bennett returned the vehicle to where it was parked when the birds built the nest, entering from underneath, and decided to leave it intact until the brood had been hatched.

If he felt it paradoxical that recent public opinion polls show his popularity rising amid steady congressional criticism of his Vietnam policies.

Nothing there were only 18 votes in the House earlier this year on a resolution to stop the bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson added: "The other expression I have seen is the 16 in the letter saying, 'Don't be misled North Vietnam.'"

He held open prospects the United States may ask the United Nations to take up the Vietnam issues, but added he didn't know when such action could come.

Johnson declined to speculate on whether the war appeared to be broadening in scope or on reported massive North Vietnamese troop buildups near the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams.

He expressed regret at the House's defeat Wednesday of his rent supplement proposal, a key feature of his "Great Society" program. But he noted initial success on three others—special funds for urban summer projects, model cities and the federal Teacher Corps.

Speaking of the four programs, he added: "We lost the $10 million out of a total budget of $175 billions. I wouldn't say that is a very big loss, although we do think it ought to be restored."

The President declined comment on his 1968 re-election plans, said he still wants a six per cent income tax surcharge imposed this year and indicated he may try to help Democrats raise money to pay off party debts with some personal appearances, probably this June.

New Military Man to Direct Pacification

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top American officials are counting on new U.S. military direction to get the important pacification program moving in Vietnam and to prod the South Vietnamese into doing more.

President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara discussed Thursday the recent shift of the U.S. part of the pacification effort from civilian to military control.

"We believe that in that way we will get more efficient work in pacification from the South Vietnamese themselves," Johnson told a White House news conference.

At a Pentagon news conference earlier, McNamara said pacification progress "has been very slow indeed."

With the recent change in control, McNamara said, "I am hopeful that the next six months will see more improvement than has been evident in the past six months."

The defense secretary said chief responsibility for bringing peace to the Vietnamese countryside and providing security to peasants must be assigned to the South Vietnamese.

The Vietnamese want it that way, McNamara said, and recognize it is their responsibility — "that they are best qualified to carry it out."

McNamara said Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky has assigned roughly half his South Vietnamese regular army's 150 battalions to pacification.

"I expect to see a much greater effort and a much greater participation by the South Vietnamese in the pacification process over the next several months," the Pentagon chief said.

Many U.S. military men in Vietnam and here have complained privately that the South Vietnamese have not been doing their part.

Some American officers are concerned the United States may assume the main combat role in pacification following Gen. William C. Westmoreland's takeover of direction over the American pacification advisory role.

This would mean, in effect, that U.S. forces would shoulder not only their current main mission of conducting search-and-destroy operations against Communist North Vietnamese and Viet Cong regulars — but also would take on the job of breaking the guerrilla hold on the countryside and protecting Vietnamese rural development teams.

If this happens, U.S. officers say, the United States might have to pump in another 250,000 or more men above the 470,000 currently planned buildup level.

Apollo Space Manager Has Quit Post

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — One of two top managers for the Apollo man-to-the-moon program at the Kennedy Space Center has resigned for "personal reasons" not connected with the Apollo 1 spacecraft tragedy.

"The job here has changed somewhat and I thought this was as good a time as any to resign," said Maj. Gen. John G. Shinkle, Apollo program manager for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "The reasons are purely personal."

No one was named to fill the post after Shinkle's resignation becomes effective May 31, and there was speculation that it may never be filled.

As Apollo program manager, Shinkle, 55, was responsible for over-all planning of the Kennedy Space Center's efforts in the man-to-the-moon program—a task which is not now as demanding as it has been in recent months.

Observers noted that plans for the Apollo program are fairly well along and suggested that emphasis in the future will turn to putting these plans into operation.

The planning effort now headed by Shinkle, as a result, may be absorbed in launch operations management headed by Rocco A. Petrone, operations director, observers said.

Shinkle conceded that "one of the major tasks—site activation" of the moon-launch complex "is behind me."

The space agency declined to elaborate on the circumstances surrounding Shinkle's resignation, except to say that it was for "personal reasons" not related to the Apollo 1 spacecraft fire that killed three astronauts last Jan. 27. Shinkle said his future plans are as yet uncertain.

While the Apollo 1 tragedy has thus far caused no known management shakeups at Cape Kennedy, a switch at least partly related to the blaze occurred at NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., last month.

Dr. George Low, former deputy director of the center, was named to replace Dr. Joseph F. Shea as manager of the Apollo spacecraft office, the key position at the center for the man-to-the-moon program. Shea moved to Washington, D.C., to become a deputy director in NASA's office of manned space flight.

Shinkle was named Apollo program manager at Cape Kennedy last July as part of a NASA reorganization which elevated Petrone to his present post.

Shinkle joined the center in 1965, two years after he retired from the Army as a major general. He served 30 years in the service and once commanded the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency and White Sands missile test range in New Mexico.

Decision on Dodd Is Hanging

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders have left hanging a decision on Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's appeal for additional time to prepare his defense against a resolution to censure him for financial misconduct.

Leaders of both parties said they anticipated more discussion of the question at today's Senate session.

There seemed to be the feeling a postponement might give rise to complaints the Senate was showing Dodd more consideration than the House accorded Adam Clayton Powell when it refused to seat the Harlem Democrat earlier this year.

Sen. Russell B. Long, only senator to date to speak in Dodd's defense, said Thursday some people contend Dodd should be censured because Powell, a Negro, was barred from the House.

But Long, D-La., declared that's no way to judge the case of "a fine white man."

The Senate notified May 9 that the censure resolution would be taken up next Monday, but Dodd said Thursday, "It is almost impossible to get ready."

"I don't think I am asking for very much," added the Connecticut Democrat. "I don't know what is going to be lost by a little more time."

Industrial Plan Wins Backing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Members of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission expressed general approval yesterday of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's proposed task group approach to the state's industrialization.

Commission Chairman Herbert McAdams of Jonesboro said an AIDC committee planned tentatively to meet with Rockefeller within two weeks to discuss the proposal, which Rockefeller advanced Wednesday in a speech to the AIDC.

Carl Hinkle, director of the AIDC, said he felt Rockefeller's proposal was a "very good idea," but that it would be hard to implement it totally because of lack of personnel.

Rockefeller said the task group concept was based on the piece-by-piece study of a problem to reach a solution.

engine shut down and the other on fire, and with approximately 30 square feet of surface missing from the right wing, Captain Mason, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, attempted the return flight to his home base. Flight conditions were further hampered by inoperative radios, no hydraulic pressure or oxygen, severe airframe vibration and no indication of gear position or fuel level. Through outstanding airmanship, he piloted his crippled aircraft to a safe landing in friendly territory. The extraordinary heroism displayed by Captain Mason reflects the highest credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

In addition to the medal, Capt. Mason received the 1966 Koren Kolligian Jr. Trophy. This is awarded to an Air Force aircrew member who successfully copes with an in-flight emergency.

Captain Mason, now a United Air Lines air crewman, at Chicago, Ill., member of the Air National Guard 172nd Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron of the 10th Tactical Reconnaissance Group based at Battle Creek, Mich.

Pumps at State Prison Sabotaged

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Assistant State Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton thinks someone at Cummins Prison Farm "sabotaged" two rice field irrigation pumps and a truck that belong to Tucker Prison Farm.

Murton told the state Penitentiary Board Wednesday that loose nuts, bolts and pieces of metal were put in the pumps and that the truck's engine "burned up" after someone took out the oil plug and allowed the oil to drain.

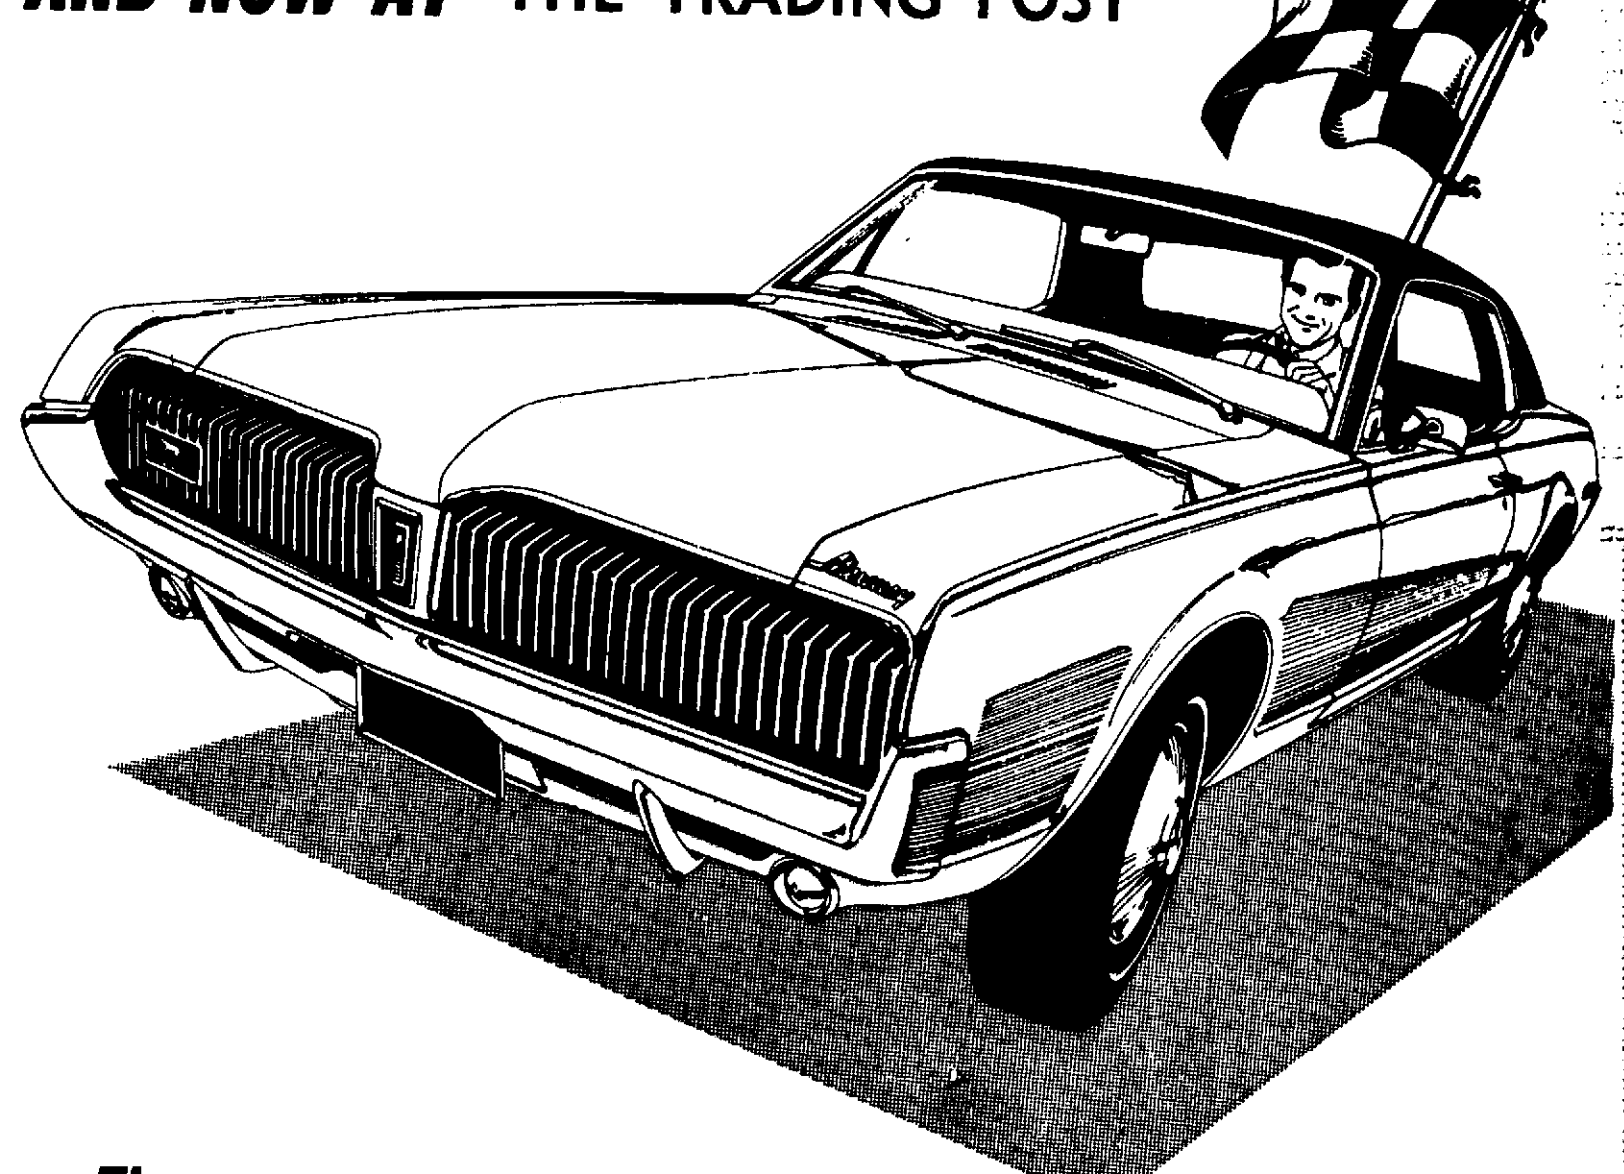

Murton said both the pumps and the truck had been sent to Cummins for repairs.

Paul Handley, the rice warden at Cummins, was present at the meeting and denied that he had been a party to a sabotage.

"I never sabotaged anybody," Handley said. "Not even very many of my inmates would say that (I had)."

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's weekly anthology series came to the end of its four-season run on NBC Wednesday night. Over-all, the programs deserved more attention than they received.

The final show was "Deadlock," a suspense tale as so many of them have been. It was well-acted, professionally and slickly produced and followed a story line that, in one form or another, is a television favorite. "Deadlock," starts with a neurotic woman with a gun and a bottle of nitroglycerine entering the detectives' room of a police headquarters. She planned to wait the return of a detective who had just shot and killed her husband who was resisting arrest.

From then on to the very fast wind-up—not unexpected—assorted police characters and innocent by-standers attempted to get out of the dangerous situation.

Some of the series programs have been great—"The Game" last season was certainly one of the outstanding shows of that period and the quality generally has been a cut above TV's average.

Bob Hope has served as host and presenter on the series, introducing each program with a quip or two which was greeted by incongruous howls of canned laughter, suggesting a studio audience for what were obviously studio-produced playlets.

Hope, of course, will be back next season with his very popular comedy specials, but the anthology series will be replaced by a variety hour with assorted star-hosts.

CBS now is weighing the fate of two long-playing daytime panel shows. The network expects to add a new soap opera "A Many Splendored Thing," spun off a best-selling book as was "Peyton Place." It will probably go into the time slot now occupied by "Password."

ABC will drop "One in a Million," a game show that had its premiere only last month, and substitute "The Family Game," a new package produced by the man who gave them their popular "Newlywed Game" and "The Dating Game." The new show starts June 19.

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

MY READERS ANSWER THE MAIL

Dear Helen: A word of encouragement to the divorced waitress who says all men think she is easy prey.

Seven years ago my ex-wife obtained an Alabama divorce and married her 24-year-old boyfriend, this after we had been wed 13 years. The court awarded her custody of our two children but she informed me I could have them with me any and every time they choose.

When they are with me, which is often, we eat most of our meals in restaurants. Most of the waitresses in our area learned of my problem, and without any suggestion or request from me, we began to be helped in many little ways. The girls watched the small boys' meals carefully, making certain they had the proper food. Since I worked all day, often they would phone or stop over at my house to see my sons had proper care. They were taken to the movies, bowling, the shore, etc. Many of the waitresses were divorced and had children of their own, but still they managed to find time for us. There were no emotional strings attached.

If any jackass is stupid enough to make an uncomplimentary remark about a waitress in front of me, I'll tell him plenty! I am proud to say I have many waitresses for friends, and there may be people just as good in the world, but none better. At a time when the boys needed a mother's attention badly, they had several fine substitute mothers. This is something I'll never be able to repay, even if they'd let me.—E.J.F.

Dear Helen: You asked for divorcees to tell others how they "came through". I am newly divorced, mother of three, living in the suburbs, consider myself nice looking, intelligent, with high standards. After three months of crying the blues, I decided this wasn't the answer, and began a program of rehabilitation. It has worked. The children and I are happy and well adjusted, the future bright.

The divorce knocked off my excess weight. I took on a new hairdo and re-styled my wardrobe, found an exciting part-time job. I go to school one night a week, started playing duplicate bridge and, most importantly, began looking for new single women (and men) friends. The married community is not in tune with us singles. I joined Parents without Partners (you can find the number in the phone book or at the library.) I read everything I could find on adjusting to divorce. I joined various "singles clubs" suggested by my new friends. I even joined a computer-match service, advertised in the newspaper, and though I didn't meet any lasting men through this, it was fun and kept anticipation going.

The secret, I feel, is to look sharp, be sharp, smile, be friendly, and always have a good time; never let self-pity defeat you.

It seems to me the vast numbers of single people all over the country aren't getting their share of publicity. When you figure there are over 500,000 adult singles in the San Francisco Bay area alone you can see we're a large segment of society, and rate as much concern as the Goldens, Hippies, teenagers, even mothers.—JOLINE

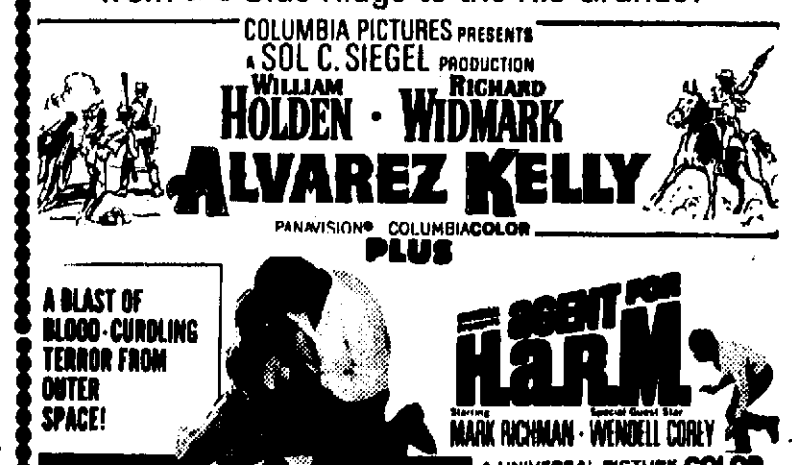

Dear Helen: If a divorcee wants to meet men, she can go to the

Friday night Bargain counter, where you go "single," and after a double-scotch, come out "doubles." But not if she wants to keep those high morals. Bars are for instant friendships, but they don't lead to marriage.—KNOWS

Dear Helen: I agree a lot of men turn a divorcee into a wrestling partner, and others are looking for someone to support them. But if "Divorcee" sticks to her guns, joins various organizations, she'll win. I stayed single 12 years, then a woman friend introduced me to my present husband who is all I ever want in a man. I was still wondering if I should marry him on my way to the church. I have never once been sorry.—MRS. F.K.

Dear Helen: I am 19 and divorced. I was married at 17 and "freed" last July in Las Vegas. I used to think the same as have no trouble.—HAPPY

Stockton Leads Hogan in Colonial

By MIKE COCHRAN
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Hogan cast a long shadow today as young Dave Stockton guided a wind-ruffled field into the second round of the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Hogan flirted with a course record Thursday, stumbled at the threshold, and relinquished the first-round lead to Stockton, who equaled the record with a 65.

The five-under-par effort was Stockton's first competitive round here and surprised no one more than himself. In fact, he didn't even expect an invitation to play here.

Hogan moved down the 17th fairway five under par as Stockton putted out on the final hole. A huge gallery, held back by 10 marshals and two policemen, fanned out behind Hogan.

Hogan's second shot caught a trap guarding the green, and his blast out left him 25 feet from the cup. He three putted for a double bogey, on the same hole Stockton birdied minutes earlier.

The 67 left him deadlocked for second with Bobby Nichols and Mason Rudolph, and a stroke ahead of Masters champion Gay Brewer.

No one else broke par on the 7,132-yard Colonial course, although four matched par 70. The quartet included Tom Weiskopf, Dave Hill, Kermit Zarley and Dan Sikes.

Deane Beman, making his pro debut after an illustrious amateur career, was one shot back at 71 with Julius Boros and six others.

Defending champion Bruce Devlin fired a 72, as did Jack Nicklaus. Arnold Palmer, with a faltering 39 on the back stretch, was in at 73.

Winds gusting to 25 miles an hour and temperatures hovering in the 90s contributed to a number of high scores.

Ticket Surge for Pavilla, Cokes Fight

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A late surge in ticket sales may boost the world's welterweight title fight between champion Curtis Cokes and challenger Francois Pavilla of Paris into a paying proposition tonight.

But it's no worry to either since they have guarantees, Cokes getting $35,000 and Pavilla $7,500 and expenses.

Kenneth Hayles, who is promoting the fight for the Greater Dallas Sports Association, is quite interested though. He checked up at the close of business Thursday and found there was almost $40,000 in the till.

"I believe about 60 per cent of the gate will come in sales today and that would mean about $100,000," said Hayles. "That would be fine. We need $65,000 to pay expenses."

It was a trim-down from Hayles' previous forecast of 10,000 paying customers and $131,000 but still was much more than most experts were predicting—6,000 paying $70,000.

Cokes defends his title for the second time in seven months and he is a solid favorite to take out the eager young man from France because of superior height and reach and adeptness at the counter punch, plus what even the enemy camp concedes to be the best uppercut in the business.

Pavilla, according to his manager, Jean Brettonel, will make the fight with a flurry of punches from start to finish.

Derby Winner Going After the Pimlico

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kentucky Derby winner answers horse racing's big question Saturday over Pimlico's history-steeped track when Proud Clarion attempts to prove that his victory at Churchill Downs was no fluke.

The lanky son of Hall to Reason from John Calbreath's Darby Dan Farm, who dropped out of the clouds at odds of 30-1 to win the Derby on May 6, takes on nine other 3-year-olds at 5:30 p.m., EDT, in the 131-16 miles of the 92nd running of the Preakness.

Arrayed against him will be four of the field he whipped in the Derby, runner-up Barbs Delight, third-place Damascus, fourth-place Reason to Hall and Ask the Fare, who wound up fifth.

To the cast has been added Florida Derby winner in Reality; Great Power, a speedster who has won his last two starts; Favorable Turn; Misty Cloudy and Celtic Air, a stablemate of Damascus and the only surprise when the entry box was opened Thursday.

Trainer Frank Whiteley Jr. had given no indication that Damascus would have a running mate. The pair have different owners, with Damascus racing in the white and red dot silks of Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft and Celtic Air for Orme Wilson Jr., a State Department employee in Washington.

With the owners paying a starting fee of $10,000 each, in addition to the entry fee of $1,000, the second leg of the Triple Crown will have a record gross value of $194,000. To the winner will go $141,500—also a new high for the run for the Black Eyed Susans.

Columbia Broadcasting System will televise the race from 5:54 p.m., EDT.

The track handicapper has made Mrs. Frances A. Genter's In Reality the 5-2 favorite, with Proud Clarion and the entry of Damascus and Celtic Air next in three hits and a run in the first line at 3-1. Barbs Delight, beat-inning but nothing after that. He on one-length after setting most struck out 11 and drove in a run of the pace in the one-sixteenth with a sixth inning single that mile longer Derby, follows at 5-set up Bristol's ejection.

But the crowd, expected by base and Bobby Wine on first track officials to number between 30,000 and 35,000, might tempted squeeze. Callison was well change all that before the trapped in a rundown but made cry of "They're off" echoes it back to third as Wine reached through the ancient plant on the second.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Two Salt Lake City men bowled perfect 300 games during their lunch hours Thursday.

Jerry Zabriskie, 32, and Jim Chestney, 19, both left-handed, were bowling together when they registered the scores. It was Zabriskie's first perfect game and Chestney's fourth.

Houston in Victory Over Giants

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Out of the dark recesses of the San Francisco Giants' dugout came that refrain so familiar to the ears of an umpire.

"Meathead!"
Up went Shag Crawford's thumb, out of the game went Ollie Brown and on the field rushed Herman Franks.

It all happened in the second inning of what was to become a 6-2 Houston victory over the Giants Thursday night.

The Astros' Jimmy Wynn had hit a disputed home run in the first inning which the Giants claimed was foul. As San Francisco prepared to bat in the second, the needling of Crawford continued. Suddenly, Brown got the thumb.

Franks charged after Crawford to protest the ejection and pretty soon, Brown had company in the clubhouse.

"All that was said was 'meathead,'" Franks stormed after the game. "How can you throw a man out of the ball game unless you see him? One voice out of 25. How can he tell who yelled 'meathead' out of all those?"

Franks and Crawford bumped. The umpire pushed Herman away, and squared off to defend himself.

"I didn't bump him that hard," said Franks. "We just rubbed chests."
Crawford didn't exactly agree.

"Herman told me I got the wrong man and I'm certain I didn't," said Crawford. "We bumped and I pushed him away. He came down with both hands on my shoulder after I pushed him back."

Franks wasn't the only manager having thumb trouble Thursday. Cincinnati's Dave Bristol and Atlanta's Billy Hitchcock also were tossed out in the only other National League games played. The Reds bowed to Philadelphia 7-1 and the Braves lost to Pittsburgh 5-3.

In the only American League game, Washington dropped Baltimore 2-0 and Orioles Manager Hank Bauer stuck around for the whole game.

Crawford, who called Wynn's homer fair, was certain that he had tossed the right man when he ejected Brown.

"He was looking right at me," the umpire said. "He called me a meathead."
Franks was just as adamant...about the homer and Brown.

"The ball was foul," he fumed. "Why pick on Brown? He didn't say a thing. I know who said it but I'm not going to say who it was."

Jim Bunning allowed the Reds three hits and a run in the first line at 3-1. Barbs Delight, beat-inning but nothing after that. He on one-length after setting most struck out 11 and drove in a run of the pace in the one-sixteenth with a sixth inning single that mile longer Derby, follows at 5-set up Bristol's ejection.

Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski homered for the Pirates, and Gene Oliver connected for the Braves.

Pete Richert first fired a three-hitter at the Orioles, who were bowling together when they registered the scores. It was Zabriskie's first perfect game and Chestney's fourth.

WILTON FLOWERS describes how University of Tennessee track and football star Richmond Flowers Jr. feels. The Tennessee sophomore collapsed during a 440-yard hurdles race. Earlier, he had competed in the 120-yard high hurdles, the 100-yard dash and the long jump. Due to football and track, Richmond takes few days off during the year. Maybe now he will.

Clay Trial Scheduled June 19

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cas-sius Clay is scheduled to stand trial June 19 on a charge of re-fusing to be inducted into the Army.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingra-ham set the date Thursday which is two weeks later than the original June 5 date but six weeks earlier than the Aug. 1 date the former world heavy-weight champion's lawyers had sought.

In denying the requested Aug. 1 date, Judge Ingraham said Clay's defense had been given adequate notice to prepare for trial since the indictment was returned May 8 and because the issues in the case are not com-plex enough to warrant a con-tinuance.

Clay refused to be inducted into the Army April 28. He claims he is a Black Muslim minister and should be given a ministerial deferment. He con-tends he boxes only 10 per cent of the time and preaches 90 per-cent.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, was stripped of his title only hours after he refused to take the tra-ditional one step forward to be inducted. A federal grand jury indicted him 10 days later and the original June 5 trial setting followed three days later.

Clay's lawyers, Hayden Cov-ington of New York City and Quinn Hodges of Houston, contended in their plea for a con-tinuance until Aug. 1, that they needed that much time to study the evidence, especially the complete Selective Service re-cords pertaining to Clay.

Clay was in jail Thursday for about an hour in Miami on a traffic charge.

Clay was arrested as he drove his 1967 Cadillac along a Miami street with his chauffeur at his side.

He was kept in the booking section for an hour until he made $75 bond on charges of failing to have a driver's license and not keeping a promise to appear in court.

Clay waited in jail until the chauffeur, Reggie Thomas, re-turned with the $75. He then left by a side door.

A jail official said the arrest was made without incident and there was no undue incident at the jail.

Allen Off in First Walker Cup Match

SANDWICH, England (AP)—Don Allen, Rochester, N.Y., in-surance salesman, teed off in his first Walker Cup golf cham-pionship match abroad today - and commented:

"What a nice birthday present."

It was Allen's 29th birthday, and he donned a new sweater Judy, his bride of 11 months, gave him.

But the real gift he wanted was to be part of a winning 10-man American team over Brit-ain in the two-day battle of amateur players.

Memorial Race Trial Runs End Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Ten-mile time trials to deter-mine 33 starters in the 51st 500-mile Memorial Day auto race will be completed Saturday and Sunday, with Roger McCluskey virtually conceded fast time for the weekend.

The Tucson, Ariz., veteran, Hawk Ford.

king of the half-mile highbanked tracks, threw a rod last week-end when 25 other drivers put cars into the lineup at least temporarily. His Eagle-Ford had been running among the half-dozen fastest in practice.

McCluskey had been over 166 this week with another engine and nobody else has been in that category.

Almost nonexistent possibili-ties of any new qualifying re-cords probably will hold this weekend's crowds well below last Saturday's estimated at-tendance of more than 200,000. Sunday's program was rained out.

Mario Andretti, who won the pole position on the opening day of trials, had been unchallenged in the 168-plus category. He had a best lap of 169.779 and a 10-mile average of 168.982 in his Hawk Ford.

Steve Shea doused Arkansas' hopes and got credit for the victory.

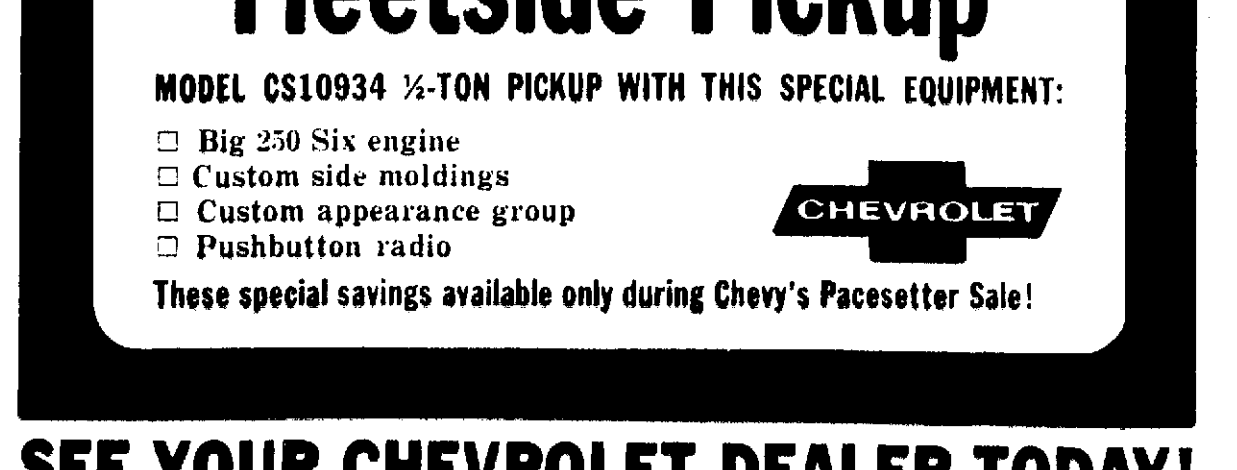

The loss left Arkansas trail-ing league-leading Amarillo by half-dozen fastest in practice. El Paso by a game and a half.

El Paso downed Dallas-Fort Worth 9-8 in 11 innings in the only other Texas League action Thursday night. Albuquerque dropped a 9-4 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers in an ex-hibition game at Albuquerque.

Amarillo is at Arkansas again tonight. Austin has a double-header at Albuquerque, and Dallas-Fort Worth is at El Paso.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Use Extreme Caution Handling Insecticides
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The time to fight the insect hordes is at hand. These hordes must be fought because (1) they destroy crops and flower gardens, (2) they spread disease to man and animals and, of less importance but closer to the everyday lives of most of us, (3) cause irritating bites and stings.

Although the most commonly used weapon is the modern insecticide it is not the only weapon. Chemicals have been found which, when ingested by male insects, renders them sterile. Other chemicals, known as attractants, lure insects into traps. Natural enemies, including bacteria and viruses, have also been enlisted in the fight.

There is, however, no indication that insecticides will be completely replaced by other control methods in the foreseeable future. Because many of them are also poisonous to man they must be used with caution. They may cause mild to fatal poisoning through being swallowed, inhaled or spilled on the skin. Some of those found to be most dangerous have been taken off the market. Practically all cases of insecticide poisoning now being reported are due to gross carelessness.

Such accidents can be prevented by studying the directions on the insecticide package or container. Never transfer any part of the contents to another container. Don't remove the label from the original package. Store the chemical and equipment in a locked cupboard or room and keep them away from pets and children. When the container is empty, either destroy it or wash it out thoroughly—many children have been poisoned by playing with a discarded container. Never stand in the path of an insecticide spray—if the wind changes get out of the way fast. Don't walk through areas that have been freshly dusted or sprayed.
Don't smoke while dusting because some insecticide dusts are inflammable. Wash thoroughly and at once any skin area on which the chemical has been spilled. Cover or remove bird baths, fish pools and pets' food dishes in or near an area to be sprayed. If an accident occurs follow the instructions on the original package and, when in doubt, call your doctor.
No one can seriously advocate abandoning the use of modern insecticides but they must be handled with respect.

White River Float — First of The Star's Color Shows

Over the years Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of The Star, has accumulated a library of 5,000 color pictures, none of them published anywhere—but they will appear regularly in The Star as The Color Show.

This first one tells the story of a White River float trip L. Carter Johnson, Hope traffic consultant, and the editor took in August 1965. Headquartered at the Town & Country motel in Mountain Home they began their river trip at nearby Cotter and wound up the day's run at Buffalo City.

Today's pictures are significant because they represent two "firsts" in The Star's color program: They are our first publication of Kodachrome, the top color film; and our first 35mm. production. For production purposes the six small pictures were grouped and shot as one on a set of four 16 x 20 separation negatives, from which the press plates were prepared.

TOP—Dock of the Hurst Fishing Service at Cotter where the float started, and, at right, L. Carter Johnson angling for a rainbow trout (of which we finally caught 12), with Bob Hurst, our guide, in background.

MIDDLE— Our catch is laid out on the seat of the boat for a picture; at right, one of the many rapids you shoot through on the way from Cotter to Buffalo City.

BOTTOM— Left shot shows the limestone walls rising to make a canyon of White River as it approaches Buffalo City; and at the right our terminal at Buffalo City, population Zero, where our boat was beached, put on a truck and hauled back upriver to Cotter.

Washburn shot the Kodachromes with a German Contax 35mm. camera, and made the production negatives on The Star's Berkey color separator, second of the Norwegian-developed Berkey machines bought by an American newspaper.

Chinese in Hong Kong Again Riot

By FORREST EDWARDS

HONG KONG (AP) — Some 7,000 screaming Chinese demonstrated outside the locked gates of Hong Kong's Government House for the second day today, but again no fighting was reported.

The British colony's governor, Sir David Trench, still refused to meet them and listen to their demands for release of Chinese arrested in four days of Communist-led rioting and for punishment of the Hong Kong police.

In Peking, where Security Minister Hsieh Fuchih addressed an anti-British rally to an estimated 100,000 persons Thursday, the British Embassy said the situation is "very, very much quieter." An official said the embassy's normal routine had not been disrupted.

The Hong Kong demonstrators worked in shifts, each group marching up the hill from Hong Kong's main business section with protest notes accusing Trench as the "main culprit in racial suppression of the Chinese."

They posted anti-British posters on outer walls that hours earlier had been scraped clean of posters put up Thursday. The English-language South

China Morning Post said in an editorial: "There is clear evidence that many of the agitators have been paid for their work."

Ashe, Richey Carry Hopes of America

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Cliff Richey will apparently carry the United States' American Zone Davis Cup hopes against Mexico in Mexico City May 27-29.

A four-man team was named Thursday for the match and the name of Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, the U.S. indoor champion, was not on it, there by leading to speculation that Ashe and Richey would play in the singles matches.

Team coach George MacCall, said Pasarell was left off the team because of illness.

The others named were Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, and Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., who form a top doubles team.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., the No. 1 player in the country, will be on leave from the Army for the match. Richey, 19, is from San Angelo, Tex.

The Mexican team consists of former U.S. champion Rafael Osuna, Marcela Lara, Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, Jaime Subirats and possibly Luis Garcia.

First Female in School for Umpires

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Bernice Gera of Jackson Heights, N.Y., has enrolled in a Florida umpires' school with the intention of becoming baseball's first female major league umpire.

It could be interesting. Scene: Yankee Stadium, Yankees vs. Red Sox. Players and fans are fidgety because it's 15 minutes past starting time.

Head ump, pacing up and down the first base line: "Where's Bernice? She's behind the plate today."

Moments later, Bernice sashays into the ball park. She is wearing a dark blue miniskirt and tight-fitting blue jacket. A hostess-style blue hat sits saucily atop her blonde hair, which falls page-boy down to her shoulders.

(Whistles and cheers from the crowd.)

"Bernice!" barks the head ump. "You're late."

"I know," Bernice replies softly. "I've been to the hair dresser's. You wouldn't want me coming out looking like a mess, now, would you?"

The game gets under way. Things go smoothly for a while. "Strike two!" chirps Bernice, with a lady-like fling of her right arm.

"What?" fumes Carl Yastrzemski, his fuse ready to pop. "Strike! Why, you blasted, unmentionable, unprintable broad...."

"Shame, Shame, watch your language," chides Bernice in a kittenish voice, wagging a delicate finger under the outfielder's nose. "Remember you're in a mixed company. A grown man shouldn't talk like that."

Yastrzemski takes a deep swallow, pops weakly to first base and gropes his way, glassy-eyed, back to the bench.

(More whistles and cat-calls. Bernice doffs her mask and blows a kiss to the crowd.)

"Wonderful people," she murmurs, to no one in particular.

Joe Pepitone, his black hair curling around his ears and neck, strides up to the plate.

"Who does your hair, Joe?" asked Bernice. "It's cute."

"Pierce at the Plaza," replies Joe, beaming. "He also does Jackie Kennedy."

Bill Rohr of the Red Sox burns a fast one over the plate.

"Ball one!" the dulcet call of Bernice rings out.

Catcher Mike Ryan winces and mumbles an epithet.

A curve catches the corner. "Ball two!" says Bernice.

Two more spin over the plate. "Ball four!" Pepitone, surprised, ambles to first.

Rohr, smoke pouring from his ears, storms off the pitcher's mound and Ryan wrenches off

"He's sweet."

The Red Sox bench throws a tantrum. Bernice takes out a compact, calmly applies

Legal War Between Negro Groups

By LEW FERGUSON

Associated Press Sports Writer MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Battle lines are being drawn for a legal war between the National Basketball Association and the new American basketball Association, and indications are several star professional players likely will be involved.

The Minnesota Muskies of the ABA fired a major shot Thursday by signing former University of Minnesota star Lou Hudson to a three-year contract for an undisclosed amount of money. Estimates of what Hudson got from the Muskies ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

Hudson was a rookie star for the St. Louis Hawks of the NBA last season.

Singer Pat Boone, owner of the Oakland franchise in the ABA, said his club hopes to sign San Francisco Warrior stars Rick Barry and Nate Thurmond.

And Minnesota General Manager Eddie Holman openly admitted he is trying to lure other former University of Minnesota standouts, Archie Griffin, away from the Los Angeles Lakers.

St. Louis said it would immediately instigate legal action to block Hudson's going to Minnesota.

ABA commissioner George Mikan, however, hailed Minnesota's signing of Hudson and predicted "there will be announcements from other cities in the near future which will show you that our league is serious."

He reiterated that the ABA "is not tampering with any player who has a bona fide contract," but said the new league is actively talking to players it feels are not legally bound to an NBA team.

to the east and west.

Military sources said it was not planned to cross into North Vietnam's half of the zone.

While the attack on the demilitarized zone overshadowed action elsewhere, U.S. headquarters reported a sharp upsurge in fighting along the coastal midlands, in the central highlands and in the southern Mekong Delta.

One of the grimmest was in the highlands southwest of Pleiku, where a reconnaissance platoon of about 40 men of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was on a screening mission.

The platoon leader reported that he ran into a big enemy force shortly after noon Thursday. Within an hour he radioed that the platoon was being overrun, and he called for artillery to fire directly on his position.

Efforts to push through ground reinforcements ran into intense fire from what was apparently a Red battalion of about 500 men. Air strikes, artillery and gunships raked the Reds, who lost at least 97 dead before breaking off at sundown.

At daylight a relief force found the position of the overrun platoon. There were 22 American bodies there and seven wounded soldiers who had survived the night.

A military spokesman said "some" members of the platoon managed to get out on their own during the night but he did not know how many or have any details.

Planes and artillery continued to pound the suspected escape route of the Red battalion today, and a U.S. spokesman said the enemy casualty toll would certainly increase when full reports came in.

U.S. headquarters also reported that 18 American soldiers were wounded Thursday night when two company positions of the 25th Infantry Division were hit with surprise attacks.

consideration in testing or grading and flunk-out rules apply to everyone equally."

Every athlete would have to "out the academic mustard" just as any other student. "No exception should be made for or against him," declared Rafferty.

But that needn't dispell visions of Rose Bowls and NCAA titles from dancing in the heads of coaches.

Some schools now may wink at the academic achievements of their athletes in order to keep them eligible for the big game on Saturday, according to Rafferty. This would be eliminated by his plan, but he believes the playing caliber, as well as the classroom work, of athletes would improve.

Proposal Dream for Any Coach

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — What Max Rafferty proposes is an athletic director's dream: Give the universities and colleges a totally free hand in recruiting athletes.

Anyone who wants to pay an athlete's way through school should be allowed to, says Rafferty, California's outspoken state superintendent of public instruction and a former high school coach.

The present cloak-and-dagger, James Bond style of finding and landing athletes—with results such as the recent punishment of the University of Illinois coaches—is childish, Rafferty said in an interview.

"If a football scholarship will permit a youngster who couldn't otherwise afford four years at UCLA or USC to go there, what's wrong with that?" Rafferty asked.

Rafferty, who oversees elementary and high schools, believes university administrators would accept his proposals if they analyzed the plan with real logic.

Rafferty would abolish all "the hypocritical recruiting restrictions" and substitute these four rules:

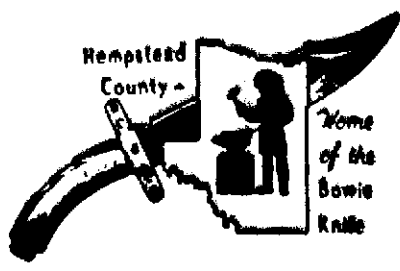

"1. Any individual or organization who wants to seek out muscular young men and pay their way through college is welcome to do so.

"2. The muscular young men must pass the same entrance exams and meet the same scholastic requirements as their less muscular classmates.

"3. The athlete's course of study must be of comparable status and difficulty with that of the nonathlete.

"4. Nobody gets any special

Star Color Show Comes to Life — on Paper, Not Screen

Ever since 1939 your editor has been shooting color pictures, picking them up as he finds black-and-whites wherever they happened to be—local events, Yellowstone, Mesa Verde, New York, Florida, Old Mexico. The black and white pictures came out in The Star, and occasionally we would mention an upcoming Color Show. But it never came off—and people would ask me "Where is it? What happened?"

Back in those days it wasn't possible to publish photographs in color, at least in newspapers. National Geographic pioneered the process color photo printing in America, but the process was too slow, tedious, and costly for newspapers, particularly because of the coarse white paper we use called newsprint.

So the only way I could present my color show was on a screen, with taped music and commentary. We had the pictures—5,000 to choose from—and the equipment... but up jumped technical trouble. It lay in the sound system. You advance the color slides with an electrical "beep" signal. When you press the changer button the signal sounds and the projector moves on to the next slide. But the background music persisted in jumping the gun: Some note in the music would imitate a "beep"—and the projector advanced the slides without authority.

I never did get around to solving this problem. We turned our attention to a new newspaper printing plant, with particular attention to color. The basic move was to print by offset, with its superior reproduction quality, installing a press that would have complete color registration controls.

This we did, making the first offset run Dec. 29, 1965, and going offset permanently Jan. 7, 1966.

In November 1966 we ordered the second Berkeley color separator bought by an American newspaper, first of the large 8x10 model.

Jan. 28, 1967, The Star printed the first four-color photograph produced by an 8x10 Berkeley machine in the United States.

In 13 months we had advanced from a country daily printed with typesetting machines and engravings to an offset daily with home-produced process color photographs! The original "Hog-Killing Time in Arkansas" picture was done by the Berkeley machine's inventor, Arve Jensen, on our machine in our shop. But in the last 60 days your editor has been running the machine himself, and the staff will be running it shortly.

This is the story behind The Star's Color Show—planned originally as a slide-on-screen performance with music... but now come to life on the pages of this newspaper... one of the truly great exploits of automation. For without Arve Jensen's development of the Berkeley automatic color separator in Norway, and its manufacture in New York City, this miracle wouldn't have come off.

Castro Sees End to Money

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro says money will be abolished in Cuba some day. Everything will be free.

"The day will come when the man who produces a potato will deliver it and receive nothing, and will get all he needs—without money," Castro said. "That is communism."

Johnson Sees Support for War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sees growing support for his determination to keep U.S. forces in Vietnam until an honorable settlement is reached.

The President told a hastily called news conference Thursday "there is hardly anyone who feels that there ought to be unilateral withdrawal. I think that fewer feel that way today than yesterday—or the period behind us."

Johnson also said there has been no change in U.S. objectives in Vietnam, conceding the war "tests the patience and understanding of each of us" and expressed hope "all of my countrymen and our friends in the world will recognize what we are doing and why we are doing it."

The President also used the occasion to defend the administration's record so far in pushing "Great Society" legislation through this year's Congress, to deny reports the war will boost his budget $5 billion and to voice cautious optimism about nuclear nonproliferation talks underway.

And he said of his daughter Luci Nugent's pregnancy: "I am very happy for Luci and Pat. I am very fond of little children."

While declining direct comment, the chief executive referred to this week's signing of 16 Senate critics of his Vietnam policies of a statement warning North Vietnam not to be misled into thinking such dissent indicates support for unilateral withdrawal by U.S. troops.

That came when he was asked

Capt. Mason Receives Air Force Cross

The Air Force Cross—the nation's second highest military decoration—was presented May 5, 1967, to Captain Larry B. Mason in Washington D. C. by Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff. Mason's wife the former Nancy Frazier of Washington, Arkansas, attended the Pentagon ceremony as did her sister, Frances, and her brother-in-law, Major W. L. Hinds. Frances and Nancy are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Frazier of Washington.

Capt. Mason's citation is for action March 15, 1966, while in command of a B-57 tactical bomber on a raid against heavily defended targets at Da Nang, Vietnam in order to save the life of his wounded navigator.

"Captain Larry B. Mason distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an opposing armed force as an aircraft commander of a B-57 tactical jet bomber on March 15, 1966. On that date, while attacking a heavily defended target, Captain Mason's aircraft was hit repeatedly by 57MM and 37MM shells which set fire to the right engine and created extreme vibration in the left engine. One shell exploded in the rear cockpit, wounding the navigator and severing a section of wiring which deprived the crew of most electrical power. Wind blasting through a large hole in the fuselage, scattered dirt and debris around the cockpit temporarily blinding Captain Mason. As he regained his sight, he realized that a safe bailout could not be effected because of the wounded navigator's condition. With one

Bachelors in Nigeria Are Protesting Rise in Price of Brides

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

ENUGU, Nigeria (AP)—In Nigeria's defiant eastern region bachelors are urging the military regime to halt the rising price of brides.

"An edict should be promulgated," suggested bachelor I. N. Okeke, "to enable the youths to marry before picking up arms—a duty they owe themselves."

Okeke, in a letter to the Nigerian Outlook, added: "The decree should make provision for the bride price-free marriages. The advantage will be that our youth will be provided the opportunity of procreating before going into battlefields."

Since the eastern region has threatened to secede from Nigeria, talk of fighting in the area has been common.

The Forestry Technical Workers Union has suggested the military fire all bachelor and spinster civil servants and hold the bride price at $56. The bridegroom gives the money to his future in-laws before the wedding.

Inflation has overtaken a 1956 law that pegged the price at $84. For the loss of her services. At "A friend of mine paid $1, divorce, the price is returned.

120," said an American-educated bachelor in the civil service. "and the girl didn't even pass her school certificate exam."

That meant she had not successfully completed high school. Education is one factor behind the rising bride price. More girls are attending high school and university. In a region still about 80 per cent illiterate, educated men prize such girls as wives.

The 1956 law was passed when Nnamdi Azikiwe, later to become Nigeria's first president, was the eastern region's most powerful politician.

When an outraged prospective bridegroom cites the legal limit while bargaining with his sweetheart's parents, they may say, "That's Azikiwe's bride price. Pay it to him and marry his daughter."

Bride price is an old custom among the Ibos, who predominate in the eastern area of Nigeria. It compensates a girl's family for the time spent in wedding preparing her for marriage and recuperating. An autopsy is scheduled.

Kennedy Kin Dies at 39

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Joan Patricia Skakel, 39, widow sister-in-law of Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, died Thursday night when she apparently choked on a piece of meat while serving as hostess at a dinner party in her home.

Her death was one of a series of tragic incidents that have befallen the Skakel family. Her husband George, 44, was killed in a plane crash last year, and her son Mark, 13, was seriously injured last month when explosives he was experimenting with blew up.

Police said Mrs. Skakel was pronounced dead on arrival at Greenwich Hospital—the same hospital where her son is still recuperating. An autopsy is scheduled.

UN Troops Leaving Middle East

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The 3,400-man U.N. Middle East force today was reported ordered to withdraw from the Israeli-Egyptian frontier as Egyptian troops continued to mass along the border.

With Egyptian infantry, armored columns and field artillery maneuvering in the Sinai Desert along Israel's southwest frontier, Maj. Gen. Abdel Mohsen Mortagi, commander of the "eastern front," declared his troops were "ready for a sacred march into Israel."

Mortagi indicated, however, that Egypt would fight only if Israel attacked Syria or some other Arab state.

There was no immediate word of what counter measures the Israelis were taking, but the Israeli army announced Thursday that it had taken "suitable steps" to meet the Egyptian threat.

Invasion tension, triggered by a series of border incidents between Israel and Syria, has brought Egypt, Syria and Iraq to a state of military readiness greater than at any time since the Suez war in 1956. The Syrians claimed the Israelis were preparing to attack Syria, a charge Israel denied.

Mineral Spgs. Man Dies in Plane Crash

UMPIRE, Ark. (AP)—Louis Dean Hosey, 35, of Mineral Springs was killed today when the Beechcraft airplane he was flying crashed within 25 yards of a house about five miles west of this Howard County town.

Authorities said the engine apparently died and the four-seat Bonanza went into a spin. It struck the earth near the home of Russell Davis and flipped over.

Davis, who was not injured, said he did not hear the engine before the crash.

Residents of Umpire heard the plane flying low moving from the southeast. Otis Davis, working at a landing strip nearby, said he heard the plane's engine popping and cutting out shortly before the crash.

Hosey was a former composing room employee of the Texarkana Gazette.

Racial Overtones Are Seen in Defeat of Rent Supplements

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The licking the Johnson administration took in the House on the issue of rent supplements may have resulted partly from city-suburb tensions with racial overtones.

A study of two roll calls taken Wednesday suggests this possibility.

The House voted 231 to 171 to eliminate from an appropriation bill $10 million to carry forward the rent supplement program. But then it refused 213 to 193 to cut off funds for model cities projects.

Both undertakings are controversial parts of Johnson's "Great Society" program. Republicans voted heavily against both.

The rent supplement program is not designed to help poor people pay for their present lodgings. It is intended to encourage private, nonprofit enterprise to get into a field now left to public housing.

Church, labor union or other groups willing to build low-cost housing if it could break even would receive an advance guarantee of economically feasible rents. The government would undertake to make up the difference between what a tenant could pay—based on not more than 25 per cent of his income—and a reasonable rent.

In discussion of the program the suggestion has been made, more or less openly, that it would result in the transplanting of inner-city—which often means Negro—families into new low-cost housing in the suburbs.

Thirty-six House members, 22 Republicans and 14 Democrats, who voted against funds for rent supplements voted a short time later for funds for model cities—the proposal to carry on massive rehabilitation projects in selected large slum areas. These projects presumably would not send slum dwellers to the suburbs.

There were a few switches in the other direction.

Of the 36 who were willing to support model cities efforts but not rent supplements, at least 22 represent districts with substantial suburban constituencies. Some other members from both parties representing suburbs, however, voted for the supplements.

Search for Boys Discontinued

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)—The search for three missing Hannibal boys was discontinued Thursday after an intensive hunt which lasted more than a week failed to uncover a substantial clue to their disappearance.

Missing and presumably trapped in one of the caves which abound in the area are Joey Hoag, 13, Billy Hoag, 11, and Craig Dowell, 14. They were last seen carrying a shovel and flashlights, apparently planning to explore a cave.

Marines Hit Neutral Zone, Kill 162

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP)—Striking at North Vietnamese troops menacing the northern part of South Vietnam, 5,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the southern half of the demilitarized zone. They reported killing 162 of the enemy in the first 24 hours of fighting.

Twelve Marines were reported killed and 202 wounded in the initial phase of the operation, named Hickory, which kicked off at dawn Thursday.

The U.S. Command reported hard fighting elsewhere in South Vietnam Thursday, with at least 228 other Communists killed. And a relief force reached a platoon of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division that was overrun in the central highlands and found 22 of the American soldiers dead and seven wounded.

The allied penetration of the demilitarized zone took the ground war to the doorstep of North Vietnam for the first time. It was certain to bring charges from abroad that the United States was again escalating the war.

One high U.S. official in Saigon pointed out that "the North Vietnamese have been in the demilitarized zone for a long, long time."

"Why it should be considered as sanctuary for one side only, I don't understand," he said.

The invasion by helicopter, amphibious landing craft and on foot was preceded by a heavy bombardment of both the southern and northern halves of the zone by Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers and Navy ships.

One Navy Skyhawk was shot down just north of the zone Thursday, and the Navy also announced the loss of a Crusader jet over North Vietnam Wednesday, due to unknown causes. Both pilots are missing.

A total of 544 U.S. combat planes now have been reported lost over North Vietnam.

The invasion force made three main thrusts into the demilitarized zone, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the forward Marine headquarters at Dong Ha that the objective appeared to be to trap elements of two North Vietnamese regiments—possibly 5,000 troops—between the allied troops inside the zone and some 5,000 Leathernecks sweeping northward from Con Thien, the Marine outpost 2,000 yards south of the zone.
